The duty to assist the applicant can be generally summarized as a duty to make every reasonable effort to identify and locate records responsive to a request. The head of a public body must conduct an adequate search for records that are responsive to a request from an applicant. An adequate search is one which is undertaken by knowledgeable staff in locations where the records in question might reasonably be located. It should be noted that where no record exists in any form, there is no obligation to create one.

Please be advised that you may ask the Information and Privacy Commissioner to review the processing of your access request, as set out in section 42 of the Access to Information and Protection of Privacy Act, 2015 (the Act) (a copy of this section has been enclosed for your reference). A request to the Commissioner must be made in writing within 15 business days of the date of this letter or within a longer period that may be allowed by the Commissioner.
